FOOD, CLOTHING AND MEDICINE RUSHED TO SURVIVORS' AID

Chicago, March 20.—Millions of dollars are being contributed in the rush to relieve the thousands of persons injured and others left destitute by the tornado that devastated parts of Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and Missouri.

Ready cash and pledges in various forms poured in today to the Hearst Chicago Herald and Examiner fund, besides those of other newspapers, Red Cross headquarters, radio stations and other agencies collecting funds.

Large stores of clothing, blankets, food and other supplies were also heaped up in various relief stations to be forwarded to the devastated regions.

There will be great need of these warm comforts for freezing weather is predicted in the stricken area tonight and tomorrow.

Bulls fans who heard appeals broadcast by Chicago stations sent in contributions and pledges aggregating $75,000; fraternal organizations pledged upward of $20,000 and funds collected by the Chicago Herald and Examiner and another paper, aggregated $9,200.

A half-million dollar drive was launched by an executive committee named by Mayor William H. Dwyer and headed by William H. Dwyer.

FRENCH DEPUTIES USE
FISTS IN CHURCH ROW

Paris, March 20 (A.P.).—Free-for-all fist fights, such as probably had never before been seen in the Chamber of Deputies, broke up today's session after Premier Herriot, in defending the government policy in religious matters, had said:

"We accept and welcome, Christianity in its pure form, but not the Christianity of bankers."

Premier Herriot's supporters rose and cheered. The opposition rose and howled at the speaker. There was a great slamming of desks and shouting of imprecations, and the most belligerent members of both sides rushed for the open space below the rostrum, which became like a cock pit with a dozen pairs of deputies milling around and slugging wildly, but seldom landing squarely.

The sergeants-at-arms in a body tried to form a wedge between the majority and opposition members, but they were brushed aside. Then Paul Faure, president of the chamber, put on his top hat and left the chair as a signal that the sitting was suspended.

NOYES, HUB STREET
COMMISSIONER, DIES

Street Commissioner John H. L. Noyes died today at the Tremont Hospital in Brookline following an operation for an internal ailment last Saturday.

The street commissioner's family reached his bedside just before death occurred.

Commissioner Noyes was born in East Boston forty-six years ago. He was a member of an old New England family. He entered the city's service as a surveyor in 1887.

In October, 1922, Mayor Curley appointed Noyes chairman of the Board of Street Commissioners and he soon gained the reputation of an expert on traffic problems.

Noyes had recently been frequently mentioned as a possible candidate for the Mayoralty.

The street commissioner was active in his social and church life of East Boston. He was at one time commodore of the Orient Yacht Club and a charter member of the East Boston Catholic Literary Club. He was also a member of the Catholic Order of Foresters, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company and the Sons of the American Revolution.

Noyes is survived by a widow and three young children. They are Paul, Katherine, Kathleen and Margaret. Mrs. Noyes and the family home is at No. 5 Thurston street, East Boston.

MOB STONES BROOKFIELD "PATRIOTS"

Dr. Eliot Is Given Memorial Book on 91st Birthday

POLICE SAVE 'PATRIOTS' FROM ANGRY MOB

Brookfield, March 20.—Self styled "patriots" were attacked by 200 angry townspeople as they were leaving a mysterious meeting in the town hall, and were hissed, cuffed and stoned before they were rescued by local and State police.

Leaders of the mob sought to justify their acts today by charging that the "patriotic meeting" was nothing more or less than a Ku Klux Klan rally.

Windows in the Town Hall were broken, a dozen or more "patriots" were knocked down and a number of automobiles were wrecked by the attacking party.

Admission to the hall was by ticket or by password. Although a number of the outsiders tried to "crash the gate" none of them were successful.

"PATRIOTS" ARE STONED.

The meeting was well advertised as a result of the efforts of a number of townspeople to prevent it from being held in the Town Hall. A few days ago 178 signed a petition that the hall be refused to the "patriots" on the ground that they were Ku Kluxers in disguise.

When the "patriots" began to gather a committee of outsiders stood at the entrance to the town hall and closely observed all those entering the building. Those who went in apparently wore no regalia. Their exact fraternal status could not be determined, although a few were seen openly active in Ku Klux Klan work here.

The trouble started when the meeting was breaking up. The silent crowd outside broke into roars and screams as the first "patriots" left the building. Then a man's face was outlined against a lighted window in the hall, and a second later a

ELIOT TELLS HIS LONG-LIFE RECIPE

President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot, wearer of the royal purple among academicians, rested from his labors today at his home to celebrate with relatives and friends his ninety-first birthday and the completion of forty-one years' stewardship of Harvard University.

Headed by Professor Charles H. Grandgent, president of the Harvard Alumni Association, a delegation of associates called upon the great educator to present him with a memorial volume containing photographs and copies of all the messages sent him upon his ninetieth birthday and a description of the exercises in 1924 in Cambridge. The book contains greetings from famous personages everywhere. And the flood of greetings came today.

CALM TEMPERAMENT.

"I attribute my health," said Dr. Eliot, "and my long continued capacity for active experience to a sound constitution never impaired by serious disease or accident, a calm temperament, the habit of taking daily exercise and a slight and never steady or regular use of stimulants, like tea, coffee, alcohol and tobacco."

Dr. Eliot, who has not hesitated recently to direct disapproval vigorously upon the younger generation for its hasty divorces and certain "thinking, is serene about the future."

"Temperance expectation of good," he declares, "has been with me all ways."

His favorite motto is "Strive for truth unto death and the Lord shall fight for thee."

The spirit of Harvard and of democracy itself was annunciated by her venerable chief in his latest utterance. "It is a spirit of service," says Dr. Eliot, "not necessarily what we call public service, but a spirit of service in all the professions both learned and scientific, including business and a firm purpose to be of use to one's fellows."

DEFINES DEMOCRACY.

"For me, democracy means simply freedom for each individual to arrange his training and his life-career so that he can do his best for the common welfare."

"There are some very important changes needed in American schools. I think it is fundamental that we have new methods of instruction, new methods of discipline, new methods of training. There is an all too common opinion that there is no useful training except in unattractive, repulsive training. This is the opposite of the truth for either children or adults. It has long dominated and a change is needed."

WHEAT MARKET STILL ON THE DOWNGRADE

Chicago, March 20.—Fluctuations after the opening in the wheat market today were at a rapid rate, and extreme downturns of 1/8 cent in the initial transactions proved to be the limit for at least the time being.

Rye values were smashed down 7 cents a bushel and corn nearly 5 cents in some cases.

In New York a sharp break of 6 to 5 1/2 pence per 100 pounds in the Liverpool market for May and July wheat was reported. The decline is equivalent to about 7 cents a bushel.

At Winnipeg May wheat hit the low point at the opening for a session of 1/4 cent to 11 1/2.

PHILIPPINE RADIO GETS 44 CALIFORNIA STATIONS

Washington, March 20.—The first report the Navy Department has heard of interception in the Philippines of radio high frequency signals sent out by amateurs in various parts of California, has come from Chief Radioman Harry Kider at the Los Banos naval radio station. Using a receiver of his own construction with a one-half 25-foot antenna, the naval operator reported that he recently had logged amateur stations from the United States and elsewhere. The distance to the nearest station is estimated at about 10,000 miles.

EMPEROR MAXIMILIAN'S WIDOW IS NEAR DEATH

Brussels, March 20.—Former Empress Marie Charlotte, widow of the Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, is gravely ill of the grip, and little hope is held for recovery in view of her advanced age. She is eighty-five and for many years has resided in a chateau near Brussels, she has been visited in her illness by King Albert, who is her nephew.

CURZON, DEATH TO LIBERALIZE ENGLAND

London, March 20 (R.C.S.)—Marquis Curzon, Lord President of the Privy Council and leader of the aristocratic isolationists in British politics, died today from illness which followed an operation on March 8.

An aristocrat of aristocrats, his brilliant political career was halted short of his greatest ambition, to become British Premier.

Only a short time ago Lord Curzon was enthusiastically hailed as a savior of the British Empire. Here he passed his own obituary. "Here lies a superior person, in intelligent anticipation of the life to come."

Lord Curzon had been married to Mary Victoria Leiter of Washington, and his second daughter of the late J. Monroe Illinois, formerly American Minister to Brazil. As he left no sons, the marquess becomes extinct. His vicariousness passed to his nephew, Richard Curzon, and the eldest daughter of his first marriage succeeded to the baronetcy. His youngest daughter, who died at his bedside when he died.

Lord Curzon's death probably will mean a liberalization of British foreign policy. He had been leader of the isolationists and opposed to a French security pact. His death probably will mean that the group led by Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, will have a freer hand.

The Marquis Curzon was born on January 11, 1859, at Kedleston, Eng. His father, Lord Curzon, fourth baron of Scarsdale, was educated at Eton and Balliol College, Oxford.

In 1898 he became a baron and in 1911 he was made an earl. His title, Marquis Curzon, came in 1921. He was appointed Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs in 1905. In 1905 he was made Viceroy and Governor-General of India, which post he held until 1909.

London, March 20 (R.C.S.)—Charles Robinson is entitled to an order from the Midland Bank for the costs for his defense against charges of conspiracy, Lords Justice Atkin and Burroughs of the court of appeal ruled today.

Robinson may not reopen the case, in which he sought to recover $450,000 from the bank, according to a previous ruling. His suit brought the "Mr. A" scandal into court and revealed the plot by which Sir Har Singh was made to pay $750,000 for his friendship with Mrs. R. S. H. H. H.

RACHMANINOFF IN FINE FORM AT RECITAL

Small but Enthusiastic Audience Cheers Artist at Symphony Hall

Bergh Rachmaninoff played at his second concert of the season at Symphony Hall last night, and once more an audience went away disappointed at not having heard him play his famous "Prelude" in C sharp minor. Mr. Rachmaninoff is evidently determined not to play this number again for a long while to come.

Five times the audience recalled him after the close of the program, and each time he came readily enough, and almost superbly played an extra number. The audience continued its applause for about ten minutes.

Yesterday's concert resembled the first one in that the pianist was once more in the mood for splendid playing. At his first concert he gave an unforgettable performance of Liszt's B minor Sonata, and last night there was an equally epoch-making performance of Beethoven's "Appassionata" Sonata. Under his fingers the dull page of the "Appassionata" work to longer, sweeter, and the truly epic pages were played in heroic fashion.

Rachmaninoff built up in his performance of the Sonata a great architectural structure. It was a piece of work. The rhythmic sweep of the piece was wrought with dynamic power. Emotionally, too, the performance was fine. There were admirable contrasts, skillful shading, and everything that goes to make a good performance of a masterpiece.

A group of his own numbers—four études and a prelude in B minor—found Rachmaninoff his usual self. No one else can rival him in the personality that they have when Rachmaninoff plays them.

The audience was small, although it was very enthusiastic.

Mrs. Fiske announced the formation of a new national committee to carry on an intensive campaign against the use of the steel trap in the capture of fur-bearing animals.

TRANS-ATLANTIC MAILS JUST COMING In heart of their weighty and always welcome pouches many a bit of news concerning Bostonians now traveling in far and romantic lands. And none of the items carry a wider or deeper interest than those about Basil King, the author, and Mrs. King.

MR. AND MRS. KING departed from their Cambridge home many months ago, on leisurely travel and with before them an itinerary of fascinating adventures. It goes without saying that they put in some time in Paris. What European journey is quite complete without a long or short stay in the lovely city on the Seine?

AFTER THEY followed the seasonal round and went southward to Cannes, that city of the French Riviera which the literati may be said to prefer, above the other more glittering resorts which overlook the blue Mediterranean Sea.

JUST NOW AND for some time past the Basil Kings are settled down in the ancient Italian city of Florence, where Mr. King is devoting some an hour to the pen and where, no doubt, another masterpiece from his highly endowed hand will be completed.

THEY ARE NOT returning to this side until the late spring or the early summer, but whenever the news there is a hearty welcome to stars for those outside.

NEWS FROM the Mid-Pacific to letters bearing the Hawaiian postmark concerns Mrs. Edwin U. Curtis and her vivacious and pretty daughter, Penelope and Margaret Curtis, who have spent the winter in Uncle Sam's tropical islands.

THEY—LIKE the Kings—left town many months ago, intent on a long sojourn away. They took a villa out at one of the beaches that do so much to make Hawaii the wonderland it is, and the girls immediately became great beauties.

ASKS $500 FOR CARE OF SON; DISABLED VETERAN

Worcester, Mass., 19.—Alleging his employment to be precarious and that he is unable to provide for himself and his wife, Edward O'Loughlin, a septuagenarian of Clinton, filed a petition in probate court asking that he be allowed $500 from an award of $2,000 by the government to his son, John O'Loughlin, a World War veteran now in the insane hospital at Bridgewater.

HARVARD STAFF SEE PAY RAISE IN LEGACY

Nearly $800,000 Left to University by Will of Graduate

Members of the teaching staff at Harvard were hopeful today that the suggestion made by the late Mrs. Anna R. Milton of New York in leaving nearly $800,000 to the university will be adopted.

Mrs. Milton recommended that the money be used as a trust fund to increase their salaries.

Mrs. Milton died in 1924, leaving an estate of nearly $1,000,000, as appraised of the estate filed in the State Tax Department reveals. Her estate totals $983,344, of which all but $150,000 goes to Harvard.

In addition to this amount, $1,000,000 left in trust to her by her husband during her lifetime, is retained and also goes to Harvard, as provided by the husband's will.

Mrs. Milton was the widow of W. H. H. Milton of New York and Pittsfield, Mass. Mr. Milton was a graduate of Harvard, class of '83, and when he died in 1906 he left his property in trust for his widow, provided that it go to Harvard willfully.

HARPIS GETS LONGER STAY IN U. S.

Washington Extends Permit of Mrs. Savitzkaya of the Symphony

United States immigration authorities have decided that the Boston Symphony Orchestra may retain the services of its second harpist, Mme. Lydia Savitzkaya, for another six months.

Under the immigration law, Mme. Savitzkaya was admitted to the United States as an artist, the quota of immigrants from Russia, her home, having been exhausted. The permit allowed her to remain here for six months. That time has expired, but after repeated letters and visits to Washington the period has been extended.

Mrs. Savitzkaya has had an engaging and picturesque career. As a child, she attended the famous demy school in St. Petersburg founded by Catherine the Great and maintained exclusively for children of the nobility. There, beside a general education, she received her first lessons on the harp.

Empress Marie, mother of the late Czar, was the patroness of the institution, and on one of her frequent visits the child-harpist was called on to play for her, the girl's talent earning the warm praise of the empress. Several years later she played at the palace of the Grand Duchess Olga, sister of the Czar.

Mrs. Savitzkaya fled Russia in 1917, six months after the outbreak

Fingers in Ears, Glass of Water, Cure Hiccoughs

Yonkers, N. Y., March 19.—James McCann, aged Yonkers millwright, of whose life doctors had almost despair because of prolonged paroxysms of hiccoughs, has gone to sleep, free of hiccoughs, for the first time since last Saturday.

Stories of Mr. McCann's plight caused many persons to write, telephone and some to telegraph suggestions for relief, the family said.

"An old man from the Bronx," came to the house and proposed a remedy. It was tried. The hiccoughs stopped.

The successful remedy, according to the family, was described by the stranger in these words: "Wash each ear with a finger. Press firmly. Have someone put a glass of water to the mouth and drink."

IMMIGRATION TEST CALLED TOO HARD

Would Stump College Graduates, Says Man Fighting to Admit Niece

A strenuous eleven-hour fight is being waged to prevent the deportation of Margaret Corrao, twenty-one-year-old Irish girl, whose home is in County Galway.

Undes officials of the Department of Labor in Washington can be induced to rescind their action, the girl, who is now held at the detention station at East Boston, will be sent back to Ireland on the steam ship Lacawac, which sails from Boston for Europe on Sunday.

The U. S. immigration inspectors claim the girl is mentally defective. Her uncle, Thomas McDermott, of Purchase, Me., was arrested under the girl to cause in this country, is in Boston leading the fight to have the girl admitted to the United States.

The uncle insists the girl's only trouble was nervousness, caused by the excitement of her coming to the United States and that she was subjected to a test that would be hard for a college graduate.

The uncle has offered to put a bond that the girl will not become a public charge. Maine and Massachusetts Congressmen have been appealed to aid in the fight to keep the girl here.

to the ground that it is well known to stand it would permit near by by any means not mentioned in the law.

Meanwhile, prosecutors continued searching for a girl, who several days ago called on the widow of Dr. Oscar Olson, brother of Harry Olson, Municipal Court chief justice and instigator of the inquiry into McClintock's death. The girl warned Mrs. Olson to leave her, saying "it wouldn't be healthy" if she remained.

Mrs. Shepherd still remains at her home in Kenilworth, from which she continues to give out statements in which she charges a "frame-up" against her husband.

"All of the inference which have been made against my husband, I want that it is beyond human conception," she said in these statements.

"There is only one motive behind this prosecution—to deprive Mr. Shepherd of his right under the law."

Neither Shepherd nor his wife offered anything to controvert the evidence against him nor in support of their cry of "frame-up and conspiracy" beyond declaring that all witnesses against him had lied.

"It's all piff-puff," Shepherd characterized the evidence upon which he was indicted.

Shepherd was giving his first interview since his indictment. His talk with reporters took place in the death cell of the county jail, to which he had been brought from Cell 12, where he spent his first night in jail.

AIR ROUTE WEST FROM BOSTON

Map of route over which passengers will be carried between Boston and St. Paul. Type of plane to be used by line concern also is shown.

to be in the thick of the fray.

The first flight airport will be the eastern terminal of an airplane route between this city, Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago and St. Paul.

The company operating these planes, the General Airways System, will charge passengers at the rate of 15 cents a mile. Each plane will carry eight passengers. The corporation is a privately owned capital and the planes were announced by Colonel Harney of New York.

Captain Louis H. Knight, who commands the army flying forces in New England, with headquarters at the Army Base, South Boston, declared today the plans Colonel Harney announced were entirely practical. He said negotiations for use of the airport for landing have been in progress for months.

EDWARDS' PLANS.

Concerning a rival corporation, operating airplanes—not so much is known. But Major Clarence H. Edwards, who is interested in it, says that in the future of the next two weeks Boston will "be let in on some very wonderful plans for commercial aviation."

Routes to South America and Europe, with Boston as the "jumping off place" in this country, have already been talked about by General Edwards and others.

The Boston to St. Paul planes will be of luxurious type. The schedule will call for "dinner in Boston, breakfast in the air and lunch in St. Paul," according to Colonel Harney, with the trip taking in the neighborhood of thirty-six hours.

Financial arrangements appear to be in progress for months.

the completed part of the plan, although Colonel Harney declared that American bankers stand ready to finance the project. The interest of the bankers is based to a great extent on the rapid delivery system the planes will provide for exchange of commercial paper and securities.

An express parcel service at one-half the air mail rate, or one-tenth of a cent a mile per pound is another feature of the plan.

The most important feature of the plan is the description of the Sikorsky planes, the first of which was constructed near Roosevelt Field, L. I., by Sikorsky and a group of Russians who fled their native land with the rise in power of the Bolsheviks. In exchange for their labor, they took shares in the Sikorsky Engineering Corporation.

DESCRIBES PLANE.

"The Sikorsky plane makes our plans feasible," said Colonel Harney. "This plane can fly in the air with one of its landing wheels cut out entirely, and can climb under half power when loaded."

"The Sikorsky plane operates the forward landing. One of its motors gives it the same ability to stay aloft that the gas bags supply to a dirigible, and at the same time supply a forward speed of sixty to eighty miles an hour."

With both motors working, the plane has a cruising speed of 100 miles an hour and a top speed of 125 to 130 miles an hour. It has a radius which automatically takes care of the one-sided pull that develops in a bi-motored plane when one power unit is cut out.

Two planes are to be in operation all the time, one leaving Boston and one leaving St. Paul every day. The other three will be held in reserve at various points.

Captain Knight said today that the danger of forced landings and accidents is too slight now to interfere with commercial and passenger flying.

could not return. There was launch for in the galleries at this explanation.

When the defense announced it had completed its evidence for judgment it would submit two questions to the jury:

1.—Was an agreement made between Mrs. and Colonel Dennistoun?

2.—If it was made, what did it mean?

BIG MAN BEAT HIM, LITTLE MAN SAYS

335-Pounder Has Former Brother-in-Law, 200 Chained With Assault

A huge and Jeff Bennett case is occupying the attention of the Superior Criminal Court in East Cambridge, where Daniel M. Callahan, aged thirty-five, and weighing 335 pounds, is the prosecuting witness against his former brother-in-law, boxer F. Twombly, six foot four, commissioner of Publicity, who weighs more than 200 pounds. The little man claims that his former relative set upon him and gave him a terrible beating on the old West Billerica road, while the plaintiff was driving home a load of corn. Callahan, on the stand, testified that Twombly had previously threatened him and drove up in a car which he parked along the roadside, after which he beat the plaintiff and knocked him down, finally pounding him with a rock. Dr. Brock of Billerica testified to treating Callahan thirteen times for his injuries.

STATE PRIMARY IS SAVED BY AMERICAN

House Virtually Unanimous
In Vote to Kill Fox Convention Bill

One of the most spectacular victories scored in recent years on Beacon Hill has been won by the Boston Evening American in its fight to preserve intact for the people the direct primary law of the State.

The House of Representatives by a practically unanimous vote today killed the Fox bill, which sought to take from the voters the right to select the attorney general, the auditor, the treasurer, and the secretary of state.

Not content with rejecting the measure, which was forced through the Senate over an adverse report by the committee on elections, the House further reprimanded the "insolence" of the reactionary forces in the Republican state committee by refusing it to 18 even "no gloves" the measure with the gift of re-appearing by a reference to the "next annual session."

Representative Martin Hays of Boston, in opening the debate, said he was pleased by several parliamentary maneuvers and a test vote in which the majority party had saved the organization, pledged with the members to send the bill to the next session.

In 1918, Hays declared, he filed a similar bill which passed both branches by large majorities only to meet the veto of Governor McCall. I mention this to show the House that I am not necessarily opposed to this legislation," he said, adding that he did not believe the present time ripe for the bill. Hays reminded the House there were many new members who should have more experience before voting on a measure so fraught with political disaster.

The speaker added it was his intention to file the bill next year for an amendment done away with the auditor's office and for the appointment by the Governor of the attorney-general.

CHOICES OF GOVERNOR.

The attorney-general, he said, "is the confidential adviser of the Governor. Yet under the Cox administration he was not only not an adviser, but an actual belligerent opponent."

It is now easier to see the party by the passage of such a bill at this time.

"Wouldn't it be a pretty club in the hands of the Democrats to have the Republicans in the position of being opposed to the rights of the people?" he asked.

He declared he reminded his colleagues that the 60,000 Republican majority was a "Cavalier majority" which shouldn't be confused.

Representative Allen, leading the fight against the bill, declared it was immaterial how the bill was killed. He denied that the Republican party was committed to the measure in the party platform.

He denounced the old party convention system as "an ulcer on the body politic."

SECURES D. O. P.

"This fight was started by men who claim they control the party but are unable to deliver," he asserted. He charged that the bill would never have been filed if the Republican State committee had been able to nominate their candidate.

To Representative Lawrie of Peters, Republican, of Medford, the questionable honor of upholding the merits of the Fox bill, dubbed by some the "House Bill."

Peters claimed that on the average better men are procured in the convention than in the primaries. "Only those candidates," he argued, "whose names begin with A. B. C. have a chance to win."

Representative Francis X. Corio of Danvers, a Democrat, protested to Speaker Hull over not being re-nominated and was rebuffed by the speaker that the chair has the privilege of recognizing or not.

In adding his voice to those who wanted the measure "killed," Corio declared the repeal of the primary would deprive the State of the best secretary of State it ever had. It was alluding to Frederick W. Coed, the present incumbent.

Representative E. J. Kelley of Worcester, minority floor leader John Thomas of Danvers, Republican, Joseph M. Larned of Lowell, Republican, and William H. Hays of East Boston, Democrat, also spoke against the bill.

15-Ounce Twin Fed From Medicine Dropper

Kerport, N. J., March 9.—A medicine dropper was used to give Florence Hyer her first meal. Florence, born to Mrs. Josie Hyer, wife of Kerport's constable, weighs only 15 pounds. Florence's twin sister, Annie, weighing a robust three and one half pounds, however, carried medicine droppers and took her nourishment eagerly.

The mother of the twins was said to be "doing nicely."

FRENCH ACTRESS SUES TOM MOORE FOR DIVORCE

Los Angeles, March 20.—Renee Adore cut her matrimonial bonds with Tom Moore, also a notable of the film world, in Superior Court today. The actress, who is married almost, Moore deserted her in New York, January 16, 1922, according to the French actress, and sought at several of her suggestions that were made as still written on the door mat.

"Then I came to Los Angeles to work in pictures," she testified. "After sending him a lot of unanswered telegrams. Finally I met Beverly Hills hotel, and he would not see me only long enough to tell me to be on my way, that he never intended to come back."

JUDGE BRUCE URGES DISTRICT POLICE SYSTEM

Malden Fights 'L'

Mayor Dever of Malden has filed a petition with the Supreme Court asking that the "L" be removed to resume normalcy in Malden and Boston streets that day. The case will be heard by Judge Deane, next Tuesday.

Arthur's Yellow Cab Company In No Way Connected With Case

On March 18 the Boston Evening American published a story concerning the robbery of a Peabody man in a taxi cab in which he was driven from Lynn to West Peabody. The story related from a presumably reliable source, stated that the driver of the cab was arrested a few minutes after he had quit his job with the "Arthur's Yellow Cab Company" of Lynn, whose car he was driving when the robbery occurred. The American finds that the chauffeur was not employed at the time with which he is connected. Arthur's Yellow Cab Company, which is a very reputable concern, notified the case with which he is connected are selected.

Millionaire, Dying of Hiccoughs, Is Saved by Man

New York, March 19.—A little old man who lives somewhere in the Bronx and doesn't want publicity saved the life of a New York millionaire today after the best doctors in the city had failed. Alfred McMan, wealthy Jeweler, hiccoughing steadily since Saturday, was near death when the good Samaritan rang the doorbell of the mansion. "If the man the papers tell about will put a finger in each ear and drink water someone holds to his life it will cure him," he said. Francis relatives tried the remedy and it worked. Half an hour later the millionaire called for food and asked that his benefactor be brought in. But the little old man had gone back into a seclusion, refusing to leave his name.

In no way connected with the robbery, and the report to that effect was entirely erroneous. The Boston Evening American regrets the publication of the statement reflecting on the character of a concern that could help in the community, and takes this opportunity to correct the lie. Arthur's Yellow Cab Company is the only taxi company operating in Lynn not now involved in a protest to the city council against an ordinance introduced two weeks ago compelling taxi companies to carry liability insurance to protect passengers. Arthur's Yellow Cab Company has been carrying liability insurance for some time.

London Justice Refuses to Dismiss Suit Against Lady Wilson-Barker

London, March 20 (N.R.).—Justice Phelan today refused to dismiss the suit against Lady Wilson-Barker and her co-defendants on request of counsel that no case had been established against them. The judge ordered the case to proceed and remarked that a husband was still liable for his wife's unlawful acts and he thought there was ample evidence of a simple unlawful act on the part of Lady Wilson-Barker. The plaintiff, Mrs. Muriel Waterhouse, had not yet established evidence of complexity, the judge continued, but there was evidence of "fraudulent misrepresentation" by which Mrs. Waterhouse claimed her late husband was deceived of some totaling more than $50,000.

Edith Gould's Own Story OF THE LIFE OF A RICH GIRL

MRS. EDITH GOULD WAINWRIGHT, Author of This Series, From a Recent Portrait.

Did You Know

- THAT the children of the rich eat only the plainest food, with no sweets, even if it is served on silver platters carried by liveried butlers?
- THAT they have to sleep in rooms without heat and with every window open and do all their lessons outdoors, even in winter, to preserve their health?
- THAT life at a country place like Georgian Court, in a Fifth Avenue mansion or aboard a yacht is a hideous grind that the rich cannot escape but would like to exchange for life in the lowliest hovel?
- THAT Baron Decies met his bride when he picked up a little girl who fell out of an automobile?
- THAT George J. Gould played cribbage every night to please his mother-in-law and that other rich men are forced to do a hundred and one things daily that they heartily despise?

These are but a few of the intimate details of life in millionaire society and particularly the deepest secrets of the very rich Gould family never before revealed, to be told in this thrilling series beginning Monday.

PLASTERERS IN FIGHT FOR LIFE OF UNION

Walkout May Cripple Big Building Boom in Country, Says Labor Leader

The attitude of the plasterers and bricklayers employed by the Thompson-Hartman Company, who are delaying building operations involving millions of dollars in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, is a fight by the plasterers for their union life, according to Edward J. McGuire, of Arlington.

Mr. McGuire is national president of the Plasterers' and Bricklayers' Association and the Plasterers' Association has active charge of the strike which has tied up work on the $3,000,000 City Hotel in Chicago and several building operations in Philadelphia.

"The bricklayers want to force the plasterers to join their union and abandon the individual union."

ARE YOU A PERSONALITY?

By Alexander Irvine

PERSONALITY is the power of being SOMEBODY. BEING SOMEBODY means SOMETHING.

Distinctive personalities are rare. Men and women spend a lot on dress and nothing on address. They decorate the outside and leave the mind and soul covered with cobwebs.

The things that go to make a pleasing personality are mental things, spiritual things, and the little amenities of social intercourse.

To superintend these a dynamic change is necessary and few know how to make it.

Dr. Orlando Edgar Miller comes to show you how.

In renovating human derelicts and making them seaworthy, he is the greatest expert alive today.

He is a dynamic personality himself. One look at him tells you that if you are a deaf mute you will get a spiritual life by a look at him.

If you are illing in body—crisscrossed and crabbed in mind or spiritually color blind—come and hear him!

Etiquette, Egocentric, Mental Healing, Life Building, Mind Mending, etc., are some of the things you need to know about.

He will straighten you out, no matter what your kinks may be. Come and hear him. Two weeks' free course.

RED SOX PLEASED WITH NEW ORLEANS AS TRAINING CAMP

LET THEM EAT THERE

By FRED C. LANE.

New Orleans, La., March 20.

Judging from the many remarks made about New Orleans as a training camp President Bob Quinn has made up his mind to hang on to these holdings regardless of the numerous proposals that come with every mail from Florida.

Of all the training camps in the South this one is the prize winner of them all. Not a bit of rain marred the plans of Manager Foul and his advisory board. This is the sentiment of President Quinn and his associates has the hot word on such matters.

QUINN STILL SMILING.

The press is still smearing under the skin because of the way in which the hired help reported this year. He has put this down in his book as a new experience, but those closely connected with Bob will be sure that no such action will be tolerated next season.

Though the Red Sox played baseball in a splendid manner, the record covered one year in the history of the time spent. It served to bring out the point that Bud Connolly, newly acquired star, was a man, has plenty of nerve. He is a fighter from the button on his cap down to the shoe laces. He is just the type of player the club owners are seeking. A youngster may have all the talent in the world, but without the bit of fighting spirit is a deficit.

Buddy bootled one in this contest. He didn't quit after doing so, but throughout the battle he reeled all over the field and kept the out-fielders adding his position to make up for the bobble.

CONNOLLY HAS NERVE.

Though the contest was not an exhibition game, the spirit to win was manifested throughout the nine innings. The Yankees had won with the umpire on a play at the plate and the Braves thought the same umpire had called them out. These little incidents, minus as they might be, go to prove that there is a winning spirit first and foremost in the minds of the players. A factor that was lacking after the 4-4 tie.

The Red Sox had a little taste of spit ball pitching, playing the Mexican Parolito team with Dick Robins, veteran major league hurler, doing the pitching. The Lee Fohl delegation could not harm his fire, yet managed by smart base ball to beat the locals, 4 to 0.

Tris Flanagan, in camp but a few days, came through with one of those spectacular shortstop catches which proved to be the high light of the contest. Johnny Woods carried five innings for the Sox and turned in a fine performance.

Harold Sherman of Cardington, Ohio, was released by the Sox and sent on the same train with Dr. Robert Drury, stockholder in the club who set sail for Columbia, Ohio.

DAILY SHORT STORY

SHE shut the door to her cozy little room and was immediately in a world apart from the humdrum every day talk of teaching school in a little Colorado town, far from the fam'lar scenes of her home in Tennessee. When the opportunity to teach in the western town had come to her, she had accepted it eagerly. Her mother had died. The old home place had been sold. She felt as if she had been uprooted so she was glad to try to transplant herself far away from the place of sorrow. The one prep left to her was Jack Harding and Jack was in St. Louis getting a start in life so that he could get on for her. St. Louis seemed as far away as Tennessee. Colorado was nearer him, by several hours' journey by train. She flung off her coat, heavy sweater and galoshes, for Spring comes late in the high mountains. Stopping down, she touched a match to the little log fire which was a luxury granted her by her kind and considerate landlady. She thrust the flame of the first snow flower had ever seen in a little black vase on her richly carved. A lad had brought it to her proudly that day—the herald of the glory of the Spring. There was no letter from Jack. That made four days since she had heard. Suppose he was sick—needed her? She moved restlessly about. Finally she fitted a small key into the lock on the old steamer trunk. She always seemed near Jack when she looked at the folds of linen and the few pieces of crepe de chine that made up her home chest. The restlessness persisted. She went to the desk and picked up the last letter she had received from Jack. One sentence seemed to jump right off the page, straight at her. "I was lonely enough to die last night so I let a pal of mine here persuade me to go to a little dance at his club. Met a girl there who reminded me of you. She has the same funny trick of squinting up at me, then laughing gaily like you. Jolly little thing! Were a red dress—couldn't miss seeing her if you wanted to."

Suppose Jack hadn't been able to keep up his high hope of having her. Suppose propriety had wrought its usual work—contact with some girl every day in the office—perhaps the little creature in red was some girl he knew well—kindred—lover! Women were such chasers of dream—idealistic dreams! While she remained about him, he might be living and loving and thinking of her only as some remembered picture hanging on the wall of his old life in Tennessee. She brushed her hand across her eyes—how silly she was, thinking of that minute he was sick, thinking of her, doubting her! Lovers were such fools! The landlady tapped excitedly, opened the door almost without waiting for her reply. "Honey, Mr. Foster Marston, the attorney general of the State, is down stairs to see you. Some folks fell down the chimney in the living room and I had to put the fire out to let the men fix it. They've been running in and out, leaving the doors all open until the whole downstairs is like an icebox. There's some over everything! I'll have to bring Mr. Foster right up here. You won't mind Mr. Foster about the finest man in Colorado!" Before Letty could think of an answer, she was gone and the girl heard approaching footsteps. She lit two or three candles on the desk and moved and from force of habit, rubbed a powder puff quickly across her pretty nose. Very slim and small she looked, standing there in the glow of candle and firelight, the plain little dark dress she wore outlined with cream collar and cuffs. Bobbie and His Pa

By William F. Kirk
PA was reading a magazine late at Ma was reading a paper. I was reading Rector's Bill, the Boy Avenger. All of us were busy. It was the first time for a long time that our house was still. I sat like the Grave. After a while I got up Pa rubbed stand it no longer & he said, "Well, why don't somebody say anything. I can't bear this silence. I like the sound of a human voice, and Pa. Meaning your own voice. I take it, and Ma. We'll go on & talk if you want to, and Ma. Nobody cares. That is just the trouble, nobody cares, and Pa. What is the use of talking if nobody cares?" I said, "I don't go on & talk, Pa. If you want to, I will have until I begin to turn Pa. I said, "Do not let me hear you, Bobbie, and Pa. Or your mother either, and Pa. I guess I am getting to be quite a treat in my old home, and Pa. There Ma, been in bed. You poor old dear, and Ma, how absurd you are. I said it pitiful, and Ma. Bobbie, and Ma, you & I will be thought the whole thing was too sudden, but I was not able to stop it. It was after the ceremony that I found out about you." He got up and stood beside her, his arm just brushing her shoulder. "Child," he said, "some day you'll know that you haven't missed anything. If you want to cry, don't mind me. I'll be here. My sister is little, wears red clothes most of the time and her temper is as fiery as her favorite color. It was a sudden affair. That would keep it from lasting, of course, but nothing beautiful can grow out of disaster. If you want to cry, don't mind me. I'll be here. MEDBURY SAYS

ITALY has a village which is becoming famous because nobody has died there in the last two years. All the citizens have resolved to live forever, and it looks like they'd do it, because they've certainly got a good start.

ANYBODY can live forever, but it takes time.

THE only trouble is you usually have to wait so long.

THE inhabitants of this town don't smoke, drink, read or quarrel. The King has written them such a letter asking them why they want to live.

THE name of the village is Salicchio. It probably takes them seventy-five or eighty years to learn how to pronounce it.

THE village has been free of deaths so many years that a citizen is afraid to die for fear of giving the town a bad name.

LIFE in Salicchio is so wonderful that they're about to be sued by the Los Angeles chamber of commerce.

SOUTHERN California boasts the international copyright for good weather.

THE deeds to Paradise were transferred to them by Adam and Eve.

THE mayor of Los Angeles sent the following telegram to the mayor of Salicchio: "Dear sir, after you have lived forever in your town, come and spend the rest of your life with us."

SALICCHIO is such a beautiful place that the doctor had to leave.

THE SPARK PLUG vitamins to nourishment are what a spark-plug is to a motor. To sustain vitality, the body needs three thousand calories of food daily, yet if this food is not activated by vitamins the body is unable to thrive in health or strength.

Scott's Emulsion brings to a weakened system vitamin-activated nourishment of highest degree. A little taken regularly helps wonderfully to build strength and resistance.

If you would keep strong and vital—activate your diet with Scott's Emulsion.

break his own leg to give himself something to do.

THE citizens go in for colors and if they ever did get sick it would have to be with scarlet fever, yel low jaundice, black diphtheria or pink eye.

LAST month the doctor got hand up for money and had to report three quarantines of measles germs.

He spent four years in medical college and there's no sense in making a fool out of his education.

He charged them five dollars for making them sick and seven bucks for curing them.

THE people in Salicchio have all the booze they want, but nobody touches it. The brewermeister is thinking of passing a prohibition law so that the citizens will start drinking.

THE residents have also incurred the wrath of Ireland. This town is such a peaceful city that they don't use any policemen.

HEAVEN is supposed to be the human mind, and his food was served in gold vessels.

But it passed, "if by any chance the hull lived for more than twenty-five years he was put to death by the attending priest, who dressed him in a sacred clerical after which he was stuffed and put in a temple near Bertha."

THE EGYPTIAN DEITIES, OSIRIS AND ISIS

By Foxy Grandpa.

"I lived in Egypt thousands of years ago, he might have had a great life," said I, pointing to a fine bull grazing in a field, which we were passing.

Bobby scrambled up on the fence-rail and so did I. Then I began.

"Once upon a time, in ancient Greece, there was born to Jupiter and Niohe a son. His name was Osiris, but he was also known as Aps and also Bertha."

"Osiris went to Egypt with a lot of soldiers and there engaged in battle, and having been trained in the art of warfare in Greece he conquered the Egyptians."

"He ruled wisely and when he died he was proclaimed a God. Osiris married, his married life, and when Osiris was cruelly killed by his brother, Isis searched the world over to find her husband's body. She finally found it and laid him in a monument on an island near Memphis."

"Then Isis became the ruler of Egypt, and when she died she, too, was hailed as a divinity or goddess. She is represented as a woman with the head of a cow and lion leaves on her head."

"But what about the bull, Foxy Grandpa?" asked Bobby.

"The Egyptians believed that after his death, the soul of Osiris, their divine king, went into the body of Aps, a sacred bull and that as often as a sacred bull died, so the soul of Osiris went into the body of another bull."

"There was even a temple in this bull's honor and his food was served in gold vessels."

"But it passed, 'if by any chance the hull lived for more than twenty-five years he was put to death by the attending priest, who dressed him in a sacred clerical after which he was stuffed and put in a temple near Bertha.'

A WOMAN CAN HOLD TONGUE

By Lucy Lowell

SEVERAL second actresses about women are being shown up as babies.

"Three things," said the old cow, "a woman can't do: she can't sharpen a pencil and hold her tongue."

But that was before girl kids escaped their fingers at the work-a-lake law, and began to earn livings as bundle wrappers. How many boys do you see sitting in the coops above department store counters, holding up anything from spoons of bread to radio sets?

How many members of the "mop-top" set do you know who depend on their stenographers to sharpen their pencils? Are you one of them, mister?

As for holding their tongues—well, here's the story of Bernardina, the stenographer of Brooklyn.

Years ago Bernardina, probably a scared-eyed kid at the time, found herself a job as clerk in the office of Arnold W. Brunner, architect.

Perhaps Mr. Brunner was a little doubtful about taking a girl on his staff. Women weren't a part of downtown New York then days as they are now. Perhaps he was looked upon as a revolutionary and radical by someone who reminded him that an architect's business calls for a certain amount of confidence-keeping on the part of his workpeople.

Bernardina, plucked along, however, and nothing untoward came of her employment in the office. She did her work carefully. She showed plenty of interest, but no curiosity.

As time went along she won her employer's confidence. He came to appreciate her tact and intelligence. Possibly he reversed a lot of ingrained ideas about women because of her.

But, of course, nobody knows for sure.

When he died the other day he left her a legacy of $10,000. His will explained that he wished to recognize her "industry, discretion and silence."

And perhaps the most curious feature of the whole thing was the fact that, although Bernardina knew about the bequest she kept it so discreetly to herself that her own family heard of it first from the press.

So, there it is, by King Features Syndicate.
